

Civil20 International Advisory Committee Communicate

January 20th, 2025

*To His Excellency Mr. Zane Dangor
Director-General of the Department of International Relations and Cooperation
South Africa's G20 Sherpa*

Dear Sir,

We are delighted to announce that the responsibility for facilitating the Civil20 process in 2025 under South African chairmanship is entrusted to the three organisations:

1. EJN (Economic Justice Network). EJN is a civil society organization working on an economic justice agenda in South Africa and the Southern African region. EJN is based in Cape Town, SA;
2. AFRODAD (African Forum and Network On Debt and Development). AFRODAD is a regional platform of civil society organizations for advocating debt and development issues;
3. Oxfam SA (Oxfam South Africa). Oxfam-SA is a social justice organisation working at the intersection of poverty and inequality. Oxfam-SA is based in Johannesburg, SA.

These organizations will announce in the next few days who will serve as Chair, Co-chair, Sherpa and Sous-Sherpa as well as the composition of the C20 Steering Committee.

We are confident that the South African government will carefully dialogue with the C20 and assure it of the cooperation of the entire international civil society constituency.

We wish the South African government well in chairing the G20 by putting the political and economic strength of member countries at the service of human rights, fighting poverty-inequality and climate change, advocating for economic justice and protecting the lives of the most vulnerable, in dialogue and coordination with the United Nations.

Sincerely,

The C20 International Advisory Committee
